ARL Brewster to Hold Vaccination/Microchip Clinic Senior Discounts Available

On Saturday, June 2, the Animal Rescue League of Boston's (ARL) Brewster location will hold its annual Rabies and Microchip Clinic – appointments are encouraged, but walk-ins are welcome.

The clinic will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at ARL's Brewster Animal Care and Adoption Center, located at 3981 Main Street (Route 6A) in Brewster.

The vaccine is $10, $7 for seniors; and microchipping is $20, $15 for seniors.

Rabies is a fatal disease, and Massachusetts law mandates that all dogs and cats be vaccinated – it's one of the simplest things a pet owner can do to protect their animal.

Microchipping offers added protection just in case your animal becomes lost. Most pets have collars and tags, but if they somehow are lost, the microchip may be the key to a happy reunion. The microchip is about the size of a grain of rice and when scanned shows the pet owner's identification and address – an important reminder that if you move to always update your pet's microchip information!
