ARL Adoption Centers Fully Reopening to General Public

Adoptions previously by appointment-only due to Covid-19 restrictions

The Animal Rescue League of Boston's (ARL) is excited to announce that its animal care and adoption centers in Boston, Dedham, and Brewster will fully be reopening to the general public on Wednesday, June 16.

Hours of operation will be:

- Monday/holidays: Closed
- Tuesday: By appointment only from 2-6:30 p.m.
- Wednesday-Sunday: Open to the general public 1-6:30 p.m.

ARL continues to follow CDC guidelines regarding safety protocols and operation hours and availability are subject to change.

Like many organizations and businesses, ARL shuttered its doors to the general public in March 2020 with the onset of Covid-19 precautions and restrictions.

However, because ARL was identified as an essential business, ARL was able to resume adoption services on an appointment-only basis in June 2020.

“To be able to welcome the public back to our animal care and adoption centers is a great moment for ARL and animal lovers alike,” stated Dr. Edward Schettino, ARL’s President and CEO. “It’s wonderful to return to a sense of normalcy and allow those looking for a new pet to come in at their convenience to interact with the animals in our care.”
